Through the years, I have created skills in helping others and being creative. My interests grew from my Grandfather's sawdust covered wood shop and listening to the stories of my parents who were both first responders. Each skill sits igniting different sparks but solidifying common values of hard work and pride in one's effort. My interests have carved out opportunities to work in Kenya, South Africa, Los Angeles, and Montana. My travels and experiences have led to me to remain hungry and eager to learn and adapt.
